Support for Mine Action in 2010

Donors and affected states reported contributing approximately US$637 million in international and national support for mine action in 2010, similar to the total in 2009. In addition, assessments from the UN General Assembly for mine action operations within peacekeeping operations provided $81 million in 2010, 17% more than in 2009.

National contributions

Twenty-four affected states<sup>1</sup> provided $157 million in national support for mine action towards their own mine action programs, a decrease of $7 million (4%) from 2009. In 2010 more than 50% of the total mine action budgets in Angola, Azerbaijan, Chile, Colombia, Croatia, and Denmark were from national sources.

International contributions

In 2010, 31 donors contributed $480 million in international support for mine action in 57 affected countries/areas, an increase of $34 million (8%) from 2009. This is the highest total ever recorded by the Monitor. This is the fifth consecutive year that international contributions were over $400 million.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup> For details see tables 1 and 2, and the complete Support for Mine Action chapter of Landmine Monitor at www.the-monitor.org/lm/2011.

Contributions from the top five mine action donors—the US, EC, Japan, Norway, and Canada—accounted for 64% of all donor funding, similar to 2009.

The top six recipient states—Afghanistan, Angola, Iraq, Sudan, Sri Lanka, and Cambodia—received 55% of all international mine action contributions in 2010, as in 2009.

International support for mine action by year

International contributions by thematic sector

The majority of international support for mine action in 2010 went towards clearance/risk education activities.<sup>3</sup>

International contributions by thematic sector: 2010

Sector	Total contribution ($ million)	% of total contribution
Clearance/risk education	408.7	85.07
Victim assistance	43.6	9.08
Various	16.0	3.33
Advocacy	11.0	2.29
Stockpile destruction	1.1	0.23
Total	480.4	100.00

Of the 31 donors reporting international contributions to mine action in 2010:

- 25 reported contributions for clearance/risk education in 50 countries/areas;
- 21 reported supporting victim assistance activities in 31 countries/areas; and
- 16 reported supporting advocacy activities.

The top two victim assistance donors, the US and Norway, provided 56% of all victim assistance funding in 2010.

Four donors (Austria, Ireland, Italy, and Norway) allocated over 10% of their support towards advocacy activities.

<sup>3</sup> Most donors reported clearance and risk education as a combined figure, although clearance accounts for most of the reported funding.
